

Psychology

Earn your B.S. in Psychology from Northern Illinois University at the University Center at McHenry County College.

By studying psychology, you'll gain insight into people's thoughts and behaviors to help improve their lives.

We're thrilled you've chosen to study close to home and learn from NIU faculty who are active researchers in a rapidly evolving field that influences society widely.

Our psychology program offers a wide field of focus that includes child/development psychology, clinical psychology, social psychology and more.

The average mid-career salary for graduates of this program is $77,177.* Our alumni work in diverse settings such as schools, hospitals, businesses, government, mental health organizations, labs and nonprofits.

Completing an undergraduate psychology major provides:

- A strong liberal arts education.
- Preparation for entry-level employment in a variety of careers.
- Qualifications for graduate training in mental health fields such as counseling, clinical or school psychology.

Let's get started:
